'Pied Piper' First In Movie Series

19 Pictures Slated
For Campus Showing

A campus movie for students, faculty, and staff of the University will be shown at 7 p.m. tomorrow in Memorial Hall. "The Pied Piper" will be the first in a series of 19 movies to be shown during the winter and spring months.

Regular showings will be held on Friday and Saturday nights except when Memorial Hall was previously booked for other programs. There will be two complete shows each night, the first beginning at 7 p.m., with a four-minute intermission between shows.

Tickets will be sold at the door from 6:30 until 30 minutes after the start of the second show. A charge of 20 cents per person will be made to cover cost of the new equipment and operating expenses.

New Equipment Installed
Top quality projection and sound equipment have recently been installed to insure showings of professional caliber, according to Gordon Godbey, of the extension department, who is in charge of the project. Student personnel will handle the showings.

The University has sponsored campus movies in the past, but this marks the first time that top flight equipment has been available for use in showing the films.

Student Injured In Auto Accident
Hannah Croley, sociology senior, suffered a cracked pelvis bone in an automobile accident on the Versailles road Saturday night.

The car was driven by John Townes of Danville, who sustained internal injuries.

Townes' condition was reported to be fair, and Miss Croley's condition satisfactory.

Both are at the Good Samaritan Hospital.

Well-Known Poets To Lecture Here

Stephen Spender, one of the leading contemporary British poets, and Jesse Stuart, well-known Kentucky author, have been added to the Literary-Dramatic Series sponsored by the English department.

Mr. Spender's first lecture is scheduled for April 13, and will include a discussion of such modern British poets as Eliot, MacNeice, and Yeats. The following day Mr. Spender will discuss writing to a group, especially interested in the field.

Mr. Stuart has agreed to speak at the University, but a definite date has not been set.

Other programs scheduled for the series include Robert Peter Truham Coffin, poet, historian and scholar, March 29-31; Margaret Webster's Shakespeare Company, presenting "Macbeth" and "Hamlet," April 20; and Mark Ethridge, editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal, February (date to be announced).

Scientist To Address UK Research Society

Dr. Ralph T. Overman, chairman of the special training division of the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies, will address the Kentucky chapter of Sigma Xi, scientific research society, on Jan. 21 at 7:30 p.m. in Room 200 of the Funkhouser Biological Sciences Building.

Dr. Overman's subject will be "Nuclear Science in the South." There will be an exhibit arranged by the Oak Ridge Institute showing the Institute's various activities.

As chairman of the Special Training Division, Dr. Overman directs the Institute's Radiotopope Training Program. More than 100 scientists from 33 states have already attended this program, providing training in the technique of using this new research tool.

Dr. Martin Weeks, agronomist at the University, was one of the first to take this training at Oak Ridge.

NO Y MEETINGS

The Upperclass Y Fellowship and Freshman Y Club will have no meetings on Jan. 18.

Library Schedule
Dr. Lawrence Thompson, director of the Margaret I. King Library, has announced the following schedule for the semester holidays:

Jan. 25-29 a.m.-6 p.m.
Jan. 26, 27, 28-8:30 a.m.-5 p.m.
Jan. 29-8:30 a.m.-12 noon
Jan. 30-Closed

Jan. 31-Feb. 3-8:30 a.m.-5 p.m.
Feb. 4-Resume regular schedule.

Convention Hears Economics Expert
Dr. E. G. Nourse, chairman of President Harry Truman's Advisory Committee on Economics, will highlight the speakers to be heard at the 27th annual Farm and Home Convention at the Experiment Station Jan. 25-28.

Dr. Nourse will speak on "How the Marshall Plan Affects Kentucky Farmers."

Dr. O. V. Wells, chief of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, United States Department of Agriculture, will discuss what is in store for farmers in the next several years.

As set forth by Dean Thomas P. Cooper, director of the convention, the chief aims of Kentucky Agriculture, as sponsored by the convention, are attainment by farm families of a good living from the land; conservation and improvement of the resources of the land; advancement of the general level of family and community life; educational opportunities for rural young people equal to those of the urban youth; and maintenance of the agricultural industry on an efficient and productive basis, serving the interests of both the consumer and the producer.

Students Will Choose Favorite Professor
A campus-wide election to choose the students' favorite professor will be held Tuesday. The students' choice will reign as Rex of the annual Newman Club Mardi Gras Ball on Feb. 25.

Balloting will be held in the SUB and the campus postoffice from 8 a.m.-5 p.m.

Students will vote by means of a "write-in" election, casting a ballot for any professor on the basis of his popularity.

Plans for the Mardi Gras Ball also include the choosing of a queen from candidates representing the sororities and residence halls. The Queen will be presented at the dance.

Libby Link, chairman, said that the name of the winning professor will be announced on Feb. 4.

SuKy Plans Renewal Of Card Sections
Practice for a card section to be used at the first home basketball game next semester will be held Monday in Alumni Gymnasium, according to Charley Whaley, SU KY president.

SUKY members will form the main part of the section, but all students who want to participate should report for practice at 5 p.m.

This will be the first time a card section has been used at the University for several years.

Pi Mu Epsilon Initiates Six Members Tuesday
Charles Riggs, instructor in the mathematics department, will be the principal speaker for the fall semester initiation of the Alpha chapter of Pi Mu Epsilon, mathematics honorary Tuesday at 4 p.m. in room 104, McVey Hall.

Those to be initiated are John Wells, Alan Wilson, Fay Hays, Norman Klein, Cordell Moore, and Dr. Tadeusz Leser.

Heidelberg Book Drive Successful
"The response to our call for books for The University of Heidelberg has been most gratifying," said Dr. L. S. Thompson, director of the Margaret I. King library and member of the committee in charge of the collection of books for Heidelberg.

All collection containers, which are located at the Margaret I. King library, McVey Hall, University High School, the Lexington Public Library, and in front of Graves-Cox, have been filled and the books transferred to the main collection station in the Margaret I. King library.

The largest donation was made by the Campus Book Store. The donation consisted of approximately 60 new books, 25 of which were dictionaries.

Books for Heidelberg will be collected for about two more weeks. Those needed most are anthologies of English and American literature, and English dictionaries.

Present-Day Book Industry Crisis Discussed By Publisher Sloane
By George Reynolds

How many books would you try to sell if you lost three cents on every one you sold? That is only one of the many problems with which William Sloane must cope as head of William Sloane Associates, publishers.

Smiling and pacing the stand, the successful author and publisher laid his case before audiences gathered here to hear him on several occasions this week. With subtle wit, he explained the paradox of books in America to his surprised listeners.

Crisis In Book Industry
The entire book industry is facing a crisis which is hard to explain and harder to solve. A system of pressure has arisen from all sides which leaves little room for a conscientious publisher. As a result, reader, writer and publisher all suffer.

Since the war, production prices in his business have risen 140 percent while the selling price of books is now only 25 percent higher than it was at that time. And the buying public, eager to pay trebled prices for automobiles and other products, balks at the increased price of books.

Book Lasts Six Months
Everyone, according to Mr. Sloane, wants to read the same best-seller at the same time, with the result that a book's selling life seldom lasts six months. There is now a lack of individualism in the public which prevents profitable printing of a large variety.

Books have enemies everywhere—"Vitamin pills, decks of cards, Parloids, boards, whiskey bottles, television, and crying babies." The sale of vitamin pills last year was greater than that of books—and there is more money bet on the horses every day than is paid for books in a year.

Salaries Low
"An associate editor in my firm now makes about half of what a Linotype operator does. There seems to be some slight economic maladjustment in the business," he admits.

To lower costs, some publishers have used cheaper manuscripts for their books. The reading public immediately decides that books are becoming trashy and buy even less.

Explaining, he said, "You buy a poor book and read part of it. Then you lay it aside. And you won't buy a new book for months because you haven't yet read the first."

Must Sell Extra Rights
After one lecture, a man about halfway back raised his hand and asked, "How many books do you have to sell at a three-cent loss to break even?"

"The only one way to break even at the present, that is through the sale of so-called 'extra-rights'—the movies, book clubs, magazine rights, and condensations. But they cause even more headaches."

For the movies, a book must be adaptable to the requirements of the censors. For some book clubs, it must be impelled by Freudian principles. For magazines it must be divisible into suitable serial lengths. And sometimes, a condensation of a book ruins its consequent sale.

Large Sale At Loss
But the strangest requirement for all of these agencies is the book must first have a large sale, which must necessarily be at a loss. Mr. Sloane fears especially for writers. He urged that authors not be swayed by the promises of extra rights into formula writing. Such a practice merely starts another chain reaction in the public, resulting in still more serious problems.

Need Honest Writers
"A writer should be honest with himself," he said. "He must understand people, and he must understand himself in relation to others to create real literature. When he has something to say, he should do so as he feels best, regardless of the barriers set up by modern times."

The lanky New Yorker is a worried man. He has become known as one of the country's finest publishers, though he is youthful in appearance and manner. But the problems which he now faces seem insurmountable.

Pride Collections
Still, he has not given up, but is working hard to improve conditions. He is trying to convince Americans that they should buy more good books on subjects that interest them, and take more pride in their collections.

He believes that such reading would not only improve the American way of life, but make possible a better understanding between our country and others. Until that time, the art and business of producing readable knowledge will suffer.

At one question session a man introduced himself by saying, "Maybe I shouldn't ask you this, since you're trying to sell books and I'm trying to give them away."

Mr. Sloane looked up sadly. "Having any luck?" he asked.

March Of Dimes Drive Opens; Campus Goal Set At $1,000

By Wilfred Lott

"What ever you give, whether a little or a lot, will help a crippled child to walk again"—so reads the 1949 slogan of the March of Dimes.

The National March of Dimes drive will open on the campus Jan. 15 and continue until Jan. 31, with the UK goal set for $1,000. Alpha Phi Omega service fraternity will be in charge of the campus solicitations. It was announced by Miss Helen King of the Alumni office, who is assisting in the drive.

Containers To Be Used
The local service fraternity will place containers in various points on the campus and at sorority and fraternity houses for the student body. The faculty will be solicited individually.

Mr. Robert Cox, chairman of the local drive, also disclosed that the units for married veterans and their families will form a special committee to collect contributions in Cooperstown and Shawneetown. There were 27 cases of infantile paralysis in Fayette County last year. A total of seventy-four victims from Central Kentucky were treated in Lexington. Three children died.

Only Source Of Income
Mr. Cox added that the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis serves as a trust fund for all victims. It is the only source of income for the treatment of the disease.

The goal for the Lexington and Fayette County March of Dimes has been set for $25,000. Last year the foundation spent $28,000 for treatments in Fayette County.

Legal Film Shown To Law Students
A motion picture, "Trial By Jury" was shown to students in the College of Law recently. This picture, produced for legal education, showed the various steps in criminal action from the time of an automobile accident until the verdict of the jury.

State Board Schedules Exams For Monday
An examination for the purpose of giving senior engineering students sub-professional classification will be given Monday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. by the Kentucky State Board of Registration for Professional Engineers.

Classification is primarily for those who have finished a four year course in engineering in an approved school, but lack the necessary experience to be registered as professional engineers.

Military Badges Given To ROTC Graduates

Distinguished military badges were presented to nine University students Tuesday by President H. L. Donovan.

The distinguished graduates and the branch of service they will enter are Cadet Col. John M. Walton, infantry; Cadet Capt. William H. King, air force; Cadet Lt. Ed. S. Walters, infantry; Cadet Lt. Landon Garrett, infantry; Cadet Lt. Walter A. Hogue, air force; Cadet Lt. Merle M. Moore, signal corps; Cadet Lt. Gerald W. Rechtenwald, infantry; and Cadet Lt. Joseph C. Thompson, air force.

The students, all seniors in advanced ROTC, received the awards on qualifications of military leadership, definite aptitude for military service, academic achievement, participation in recognized campus activities, and a standing in military subjects among the upper third of the graduating class.

All nine have applied for commissions in the Regular Army.

Kernel Staff Member To Edit State Paper
Allen Terhune, journalism junior, has resigned as business manager of the Kernel to accept the managing editorship of the Stanford Interior Journal, Stanford, Ky.

Terhune will begin his work with the semi-weekly newspaper Jan. 25. Terhune has worked as part-time proofreader on the Lexington Herald, was sports editor of the Danville Advocate for five years, and worked on the staff of the Daily Pacifican Army newspaper published in Manila, in 1945-46.

BSU To Here Speaker
Dr. E. N. Wilkinson, pastor of Immanuel Baptist Church, will speak at the Baptist King's Hour tonight at 7:30 at the BSU Center.

'No Reaction Follows Jap's Hangings' --- Brady
The Japanese people apparently were little concerned over the fate of their wartime leaders, reports Dr. George K. Brady, University of Kentucky English professor who has returned to Lexington after a 30-day tour of duty with the American Military Government in Japan.

There was no public reaction or demonstration of any sort following the hanging of former Premier Tojo and other Japanese war criminals, he said. Japanese newspapers did not even publish extras, and the man-on-the-street manifested little interest.

Needed Humanities Program
Dr. Brady said that the principal task of the commission on which he served was to assist Japanese scholars in establishing a humanities program. During the last 15 or 20 years, he explained, the Japanese educational system has emphasized the physical sciences to the almost complete exclusion of the social studies.

Cultural interests were being totally neglected and it was the desire not only of the military government, but also of the majority

Second Semester To Begin Feb. 1

Stein To Direct Sunday Concert By Orchestra

The University symphony orchestra, under the direction of Dr. Edwin E. Stein, will present a program of master works in Memorial Hall at 4 o'clock today afternoon, Jan. 16.

The performance of the 50-piece orchestra, whose membership includes townspeople, University students and faculty members, is one of the highlights of the Sunday afternoon musicale series. The recitals are presented without charge as a cultural service to the community by the music department.

Opens With Mozart
Next Sunday afternoon's program will open with the "Fugue in G Minor (The Little)" by Bach. While this is one of Bach's best known works, it is distinguished by the sub-title, "Little," from his so-called "Great" fugue in the same key.

Featured as soloist on the second part of the program, Edward B. Horowski, who is concertmaster of the orchestra and a member of the faculty, will play the first movement of Mozart's "Concerto in A Major for Violin." This, the last of five concertos for violin composed by Mozart, was completed on December 20, 1775, when the composer was only 19 years of age.

'Sigfried Idyll' Included
On part three the orchestra will play "Sigfried Idyll" by Wagner. The thematic material for this work is drawn largely from the third act of Wagner's opera, "Sigfried," and is interwoven with an old German cradle song.

Any Registration Ideas?

No sooner than UK students get back from the between semesters break, they'll be faced with that traditional horror, registration.

At the time for a student to join the line-up at the armory of union, he hates to go and he hates not to go. He's torn between a dread of what's in store for him and an equally annoying worry that he may not get the classes he needs or his new schedule may twist his next few months into knots.

Part of this aggravation could be cut out by a speed-up in registration.

If a system could be devised to do away with most of the nuisance of filling out endless cards, things would be cleared up considerably. Perhaps a solution would be the mailing out of cards in advance, to be filled out at leisure, and then stamped when the tuition was paid, before classification. Possibly a help would be the filling out of a card which indicated only the changes in status since the original set was made out.

Pre-classification is more harmful than helpful, since it just extends a two-day confusion into a confusion of a week or ten days, thereby further belaboring instructors busy grading term papers and the like.

But some workable relief to the situation could be arranged, if a student group brought ideas and plans to the registrar for discussion.

The logical group to organize such a program would be the Student Government Association, but it has taken no steps toward improving the registration situation.

The National Student Association, to which $250 of the students' money goes each year, should be helpful in providing information on other university registration systems.

SGA has not been an NSA member long enough to have received such help.

The present registration system at the University is efficient and well-planned, but it's hard on the students. Perhaps in going through the old routine once more the first week in February, some ideas on the matter will occur to some students while waiting in line.

If so, and if SGA gets some plans from other schools, maybe registration would be easier for everybody in the future.

New Library Hours On Trial

For the convenience of the students, the library has been staying open recently until 10:30 p.m.

This was done in response to student complaints that University men and town students who don't have to comply with dormitory hours, could use extra library time.

The library is keeping statistics to see how many students actually use the allotted time, and so far not many have been taking advantage of it.

If more people don't use the extra half-hour, the library will go back to its old hours when the trial period is up in February.

If the students want it, now's the time to show it. If more don't show a response, the library is justified in returning to the previous schedule, and it can only be thanked for trying out the new hours.

Exams Near, But Keep Cool

These are the times that try men's souls, all right — so much so that the dorms should be about as noisy as a classroom at 1 a.m.

Even so there may be a faint noise of heads clashing against walls.

Cookin' With Gaskin

Kappa Sigma fraternity at Indiana University has a new mascot. She was ordered sight unseen by mail. The boys named her Chanel No. 5. Chanel is a so-called "de-skunked" pet skunk. She eats raw eggs, dog biscuits, and human fingers, according to the Kappa Sigs' official skunk trainer.

Despite the fact that Chanel is guaranteed safe, she has created several disturbances by making an unexpected appearance with her tail raised on high.

If you ever get that feeling that you are dumb and will never get out of school, just remember this:

Don't worry if your job is small. And your rewards are few. Remember that the mighty oak Was once a nut like you.—The Clemson Tiger, Clemson A&M.

The Daily Texan office at the University of Texas was visited by a morose individual recently who informed the staff that his pastor had preached a sermon in which he stated that there were 726 different sins. Ever since that fateful day he has been receiving phone calls from curious students who think they might be missing a few of them.

A student from State College in Pennsylvania was the first hunter of the season to kill a deer. It weighed 175 pounds, too. Trouble is, he didn't get to keep the buck and it cost him $100 besides. (He ran over the poor deer, banged up his car, and then the Salvation Army walked off with the meat.)

The minister called at the Jones home on Sunday afternoon, and little Willie answered the doorbell. "Pa isn't home," he announced. "He went over to the country club." The minister's brow darkened, and Willie hastened to explain: "Oh, he isn't going to play golf on Sunday. He just went over for a few highballs and a little stud poker."—B. C. Heights.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Sir or Madam:

Tragedy is about to strike our campus.

A well-nigh unsupportable calamity is about to take place, and I grieve that I must be the bearer of these ill tidings.

The catastrophe of which I speak is this: namely, I am about to leave. As the semester draws to the close, I realize more clearly that my task here is in vain. You have turned a deaf ear upon me, students, and paid no heed to my messages.

Don't get the idea that I do not have faith that all things are possible, even your reform; it's just that I don't think for one single instant that anything could reform you.

Yes, I must leave. The very thought of you oppresses me. The campus is too much with me, late and soon.

I am going to become a missionary. Other savages and barbarians are calling me, yearning for my inspiration and guidance. (Even as you yourselves, students, secretly yearned, but feared to admit it to your peers.)

Before leaving, I must outline a few suggestions for your improvement, to wit:

1. No woman student shall be allowed to leave the campus without a duenna. Appearances without one in the city are unseemly and should be stopped.

2. That students are mature persons, but of low mentality, is a fact well recognized hereabouts. For this reason, the University should see that each student gets his regular eight hours sleep, by a careful check each night in all dormitories, barracks, fraternity and sorority houses, etc.

Rosy-checked youth can too soon vanish with dissipation!

Therefore, the University should see that each student gets the proper number of calories per day to maintain robust health.

3. Coeducational dating must cease instantly. It seems outrageous.

Wail, Y' All, Gnash Your Teeth, Exams Begin Amid Much Grief

By Pat Thomas

Exams, exams, exam, exam for exams.

What nights those are before finals. A thermos of coffee, plenty of no-dozes, a bucket of ice water, and an armful of books. Let's see which one of tomorrow's four exams will you study first. That's right, you never did memorize that passage from Tennyson that begins "It is better to have loved and lost than never to have loved at all."

The English book is no more open than you remember a statement in physics you forgot and the instructor said so clearly to remember: critical temperature is when temperature of . . . That's down pat, get on with etymology.

Super What?

The professor will be sure to give the longest word in your notebook. That must be supercircumambulation. Where is that dictionary? Oh well, you'll look it up after you study for humanities. Realism seeks to present the truth and look at life objectively.

Ho-hum, the no dose didn't work, everyone in the hall has had a cup of coffee at your expense and the ice water is tepid.

Too Late Now

A noise! The building must be on fire, sounds like a fire alarm. Relax, it's only your trusty Big Ben telling you that you have time for one more cup of coffee and then that 7:30 a.m. exam.

A bleary-eyed individual makes his way to the test. The first question is "What is realism?" Oh yes, "It is better to have loved and lost, than never to have loved . . ."

Time ticks away, exam is over, 9:45 and time for that physics.

"What is critical temperature?" Uh, hmn, "It seeks to present the truth and look at life objectively."

Two To Go

Time for lunch. Just too tired to eat.

Catch forty winks, got to run for that 1:00 p.m. test. Supercircumambulation? Oh, some sort of a baby buggy. With that "perambulation" on the end, could it be a big round baby buggy?

Drat that bell. Oh boy, only one exam to go. Quote the passage from Tennyson's "In Memoriam." On the tip of my tongue. Why yes, you know now, "It is better to have studied and failed a little than never to have studied and failed all together!"

ous that the policy of dating in mixed company has been tolerated so long.

4. All allowed absences from class must be abolished, and those students who are late to class must be kept in after class to make up for it.

Do not snivel and complain, students! Remember, first things first. Clubs and other activities should be increased one thousand fold, and each student should belong to at least seven.

Officers should be elected monthly so that no one will be peevish or inclined to pout over lack of recognition.

6. Social organizations and their social events must go.

For recreation, all students should be herded into the Student Union Ballroom once a month for taffy-pulling, popcorn, and wholesome organized games. A loudspeaker shall shout every 30 seconds: "Have a good time! Have a good time!"

And you will have a good time, do you hear me?

7. The impression of youthfulness on the campus is a most evil and omnipresent danger.

Only yesterday I heard a visitor say while observing some childish joyousness, "Ah, there's youth for you!"

Ah, but not for me! You know as well as I that as mature students you must do away with such as gives the impression that our campus is fraught, honeycombed, with insidious youth!

There are many more things, but I must be off.

Goodbye, dear friends, perhaps you will recall my warnings in years to come! I have preferred to remain under a nom de plume, lest my acquaintances feel reverent, hushed, around one whom they thought "just one of the jolly set," as they express it.

But my words will come home to haunt you!

I depart with head humbly, meekly bowed, with only love in sincere love, and also pity—pity for you, students, you loathsome, morose, pusillanimous drove of sheep!

Farewell, and my parting words: LET ME OUT!

Tough Little Beard Saves Cats In Close Shave At Cleveland

By Kent Hollingsworth

All-Conference, All-America, All-Over-the-Court, Ralph Beard led the Wildcats to a tight 63-61 victory over Bowling Green of Ohio in a game that allowed few students to study for exams last Tuesday night. The tilt was played before a record crowd of 13,133 people in Cleveland's big arena.

Beard put the Wildcats in the lead five times during the tussle; with eight minutes remaining in the game Gene Dudley, Bowling Green reserve, dumped in a two-hander and a foul to put the Ohioans in front 53-51, but Ralph Beard came back with a one-hander at the foul circle to tie it up and a moment later he gave the Cats the lead for good with another jump shot.

Sophomore Walt Hirsch, showed he could operate under pressure, dropping in timely field goals, intercepting passes, and grabbing rebounds.

Captain Alex Groza playing before the home folks from nearby Martins Ferry, turned in a fine performance before he fouled out early in the second half. Kentucky wouldn't have been in the ball game without him. Walt Jones switched to center after Groza left the game, and worked with Hirsch to get almost all of the rebounds for Kentucky.

Share Hits For 25

Bowling Green's big Charlie Share kept the outcome of the game in doubt all the way. He slammed in 25 points, scoring 12 of the Falcon's first 13 points.

Jim Line scored the last points for Kentucky and the winning ones when he switched a long left-hander.

Versatile Cliff Barker started his first game at the guard position. Kentucky trailed 10 times during the game, twice by four point margins. Groza played only 13 minutes but scored 11 points.

Felines Face Flock Of Frays In Future

By Dudley Saunders

After taking on the DePaul Blue Demons in a return engagement in Chicago next Saturday, Kentucky's busy Wildcats swing Southward for five games before returning to Lexington February 8 for a seven-game home stand.

UK plays Notre Dame at Louisville, Vanderbilt at Nashville, Ala., bama at Tuscaloosa, Ole Miss at Oxford, Miss., and Leo Barnhorst, Memphis, and Bradley Tech at who swished the nets for 290 points Owensboro in that order between and high scoring honors last year.

Now and the beginning of the next semester.

Tickets for the Notre Dame game go on sale Thursday Thursday, Jan. 27, at 9 a.m. in the ticket office in Alumni Gym. Three hundred end zone tickets will be sold for two dollars each.

The Bradley game in Owensboro's new 7,100-seat Memorial field house is already a sellout.

DePaul Improves

Always stronger on their home in the Midwest, and it is expected court, Ray Meyer's boys have shown that they will be "up" for the Kentucky. Their latest feat being a surprising 59-38 victory over Notre Dame got 25 points for the Irish, while Gordon Gillespie, Charles Allen, respectively for Kentucky.

and Govedarica paced the three-pronged Demon attack with 31 points each.

Kentucky has emerged victorious in four of the six previous meetings with the Chicagoans.

The "up one day, down the next" back, the Commodores are consider-

Irish of Notre Dame have won seven and lost three this year in top competition. The only common foe of the two teams so far was DePaul.

The South Benders closed last season with a record of 17 wins and seven losses.

Their first six men are back, including All-American Kevin O'Shea, who was second in scoring last year bama at with 265 points, and Leo Barnhorst, Memphis, and Bradley Tech at who swished the nets for 290 points Owensboro in that order between and high scoring honors last year.

ND Has Better Past Record

The other four returning starters and their individual scoring last year are: Foley, 206, Gordan, 160, and O'Halloran, 150.

Last year the Irish handed Kentucky one of its three losses, a 64-55 defeat in South Bend. Notre Dame has won 10 of the 14 games played between the two teams.

Despite their three losses, the Irish are regarded as one of the top teams in the nation.

In last year's encounter, O'Shea and Govedarica paced the three-pronged Demon attack with 31 points each.

Kentucky has emerged victorious in four of the six previous meetings with the Chicagoans.

Cats Scoring For First 10 Games

The following individual scoring marks of UK's "Big Six" are for the first 10 games of the last three seasons. The scoring for the 1948-49 season includes all Kentucky games played to date.

Note that Dale Barnstable has practically doubled his scoring with each successive year. In his freshman season, Barney scored 16 points in his first 10 games; 37 as a sophomore for the same number of contests; and this year he has 72 tallies in 10 tilts.

ably stronger than they were last year when they won only eight out of 22 games.

Billy Joe Adcock, a strong All-American candidate is still the mainstay of the club, with an average of about 15 points in each of the club's first seven games.

Last year Adcock scored 376 points, a 17 per-game average, one of the best figures in the conference.

Kelly, the pivotman, has averaged 17 thus far to top scoring honors, as the Commodores have won five and lost three.

With Kentucky registering 82-51 and 79-43 victories last year, the Cats have now won 38 games in the series, while Vandy has emerged the victor only nine times.

NOTRE DAME TICKET INFORMATION

Some 300 tickets for the Kentucky-Notre Dame basketball game will go on sale Thursday, Jan. 27, at the ticket window in Alumni Gym, starting at 9 a.m.

The same number of tickets will be sold in Louisville.

All of these tickets will cost $2 and are located in the end zone of the Louisville Armory. There will be a limit of two-per-person.

The winningest team in the nation is another title earned by Kentucky's Wildcats last year. They won 36 games, while dropping three. Their three conquerors were Notre Dame, Temple, and the Phillips Oilers.

was Kelly, second in scoring with 241 points. Marshall, their leading scorer with 280 last year, is back along with McMullen (228), Busby (117), and Reeves (81).

Ky. Wesleyan Loses Again To Wildkittens

By Tom Spillman

The University freshman team defeated Wesleyan College's frosh in the Southside Gym in Paris, a week ago Thursday, by a score of 56-32.

The next game the charges of Coach Harry Lancaster will play will be against the Campbellsville, Ky. Junior College. The time of the game is set at 8:30 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 27, in Alumni Gym, with admission set at 50 cents. It will be open to the public.

This coming tilt may well prove to be a hard fought affair. Bobby Moore, former All-State performer at Frankfort High is teamed with two former Lafayette High standouts—Lew Sharp and Burnie Meyers.

Florida and was on crutches; Gus Sargees, fast guard from Maysville, sprained his ankle; and Bill New, red-headed center from Rockville Center, N. Y., has decided to leave Kentucky and seek other fields for basketball.

Outstanding for Kentucky in floor play and high scorer with 12 points was Forward Dick Swan. Runner-up to Swan in scoring was elongated Bill Spivey who tallied 11 markers. Jim Butler, for Wesleyan, pushed nine points through the hoop, and Blake meshed eight points.

Comparatively few fouls were called, even though the play seemed rough at times. Kentucky had 13 infractions, and Wesleyan committed 11.

600 View Game

Approximately 600 spectators were on hand for the Paris Lions Club charity game in the Paris High School Gym to see the Kentucky Frosh defeat Wesleyan's frosh for the second time this season.

Wesleyan's Blake hit one from the corner to open the fray after almost three minutes had passed by. In rapid succession, however, Len Pearson made two fielders and Dick Swan added another to run the count to 6-2 for Kentucky.

By the middle of the first quarter, the Kentucky yearlings were ahead 12-6. In another sudden scoring spree, the Kittens ran the count to 18-6.

At the half, the score was 28-13, with the yearlings of UK ahead.

Big Bill Spivey, Guy Strong, and Dick Swan made the totals read 34-13 in a few minutes after the second half opened.

With only 10 minutes to go, the first-year men of UK were ahead 27 points with the score 46-19.

The last of the game saw the two clubs about equal as Wesleyan scored 13 points to Kentucky's 10.

The Kentucky freshmen were definitely off their top notch form after the holidays and were also playing without the aid of three men. C. M. Newton, stellar forward, had a very severe ankle twist while at home in

Intramural Sports

By Tom Spillman

Intramural wrestling is now in full swing in seven weight classes and is expected to end next Tuesday night. Elimination started last Wednesday night with 23 pairings and last night there were 22 matches.

From 116 original entries, 74 men qualified at Tuesday's weigh-in. The 42 men were dropped because they failed to show up for weighing or because they were physically unfit.

Listed following are the even weight classes and the number of individuals in each class. In the lightest group, 115 pounds, there are only two men entered, while the 125-pound group has three men. Nine men are entered in the 135-pound bracket. The rest are: 145 (16), 155 (16), 165 (12), 175 (6), and heavyweight, or all over 178, finds six entries.

(In)als are to be completed on Monday, while the finals are to end one day later.

The fifth round in the singles competition ends tomorrow night. The semifinals are to be in on Monday, and Wednesday marks the date of the finals.

Basketball

Action on the hardwood court begins on the first day of next semester, Friday, Feb. 4. By this time, every team entering must have paid the $3 deposit.

Permanent rosters of every squad must be submitted to the IM office by the time of the fourth game of the round robin play.

Bradley Tech and Bowling Green (O.) are the only new opponents on the Kentucky schedule this year.

Kentucky Basketeers:

Cliff Barker

"For-cryin'-out-loud! Shoot the ball," muttered Cliff Barker as one of his teammates scrambled on their hands and knees for a loose ball in scrimmage one afternoon.

His wit, his coolness under pressure, and his expert ball handling, have made Granddaddy Barker a favorite with the fans, and one of the most valuable players to ever don a Wildcat uniform.

Cliff comes from Yorktown, Ind., where he played three years as a regular on the basketball team. His senior year he led the 12 high schools in his county, in scoring.

That same year Jack Parkinson, later to become an All-American at Kentucky, started at guard for the Yorktown Tigers.

Barker played baseball for four years in high school, playing his first season as a short stop, and shifting to the mound his last three years.

The Cincinnati Reds thought he was a pretty fair prospect when he won the county championship with a one hitter and a no hitter in three days.

Cliff, not the kind of guy to talk your arm off, added, "Oh, had my left arm in a cast when that happened, too."

His high school coach, Ken Siger, who knew Adolph Rupp personally, recommended both Barker and a teammate, Bud Robertson, to the Kentucky mentor.

The following season, it was Clifford Barker from Indiana, led the Wildkittens in scoring, beating out Milt Tico, Mel Brewer and Jim King for the honor.

Barker married and dropped out of school the next year, entering the Army Air Corps.

As a flight engineer on a B-17 operating from England, S Sgt. Barker, on his fifth mission, saw his plane was shot down over Mueberg, Germany, and was one of the five crewmen who parachuted to safety. He was quickly picked up by the Germans and marched to an Allied prison camp.

The prisoners weren't permitted to leave the camp and few recreational facilities were allowed them. However, the Red Cross did get them some volley balls.

Here Cliff, although a clever ball handler in his freshman year, really cultivated his slight of hand artistry.

"You mean you just flipped a volley ball around eight hours a day. Didn't you play cards or something?" we asked.

Alex Groza To Be Honored Next Week In New York City

More than a thousand sport celebrities and enthusiasts from every section of the country will be on hand to honor the eleven greatest athletic stars of 1946, when SPORT Magazine's first annual awards dinner is held in the Grand Ballroom of the Astor Hotel in New York City, Wednesday evening, January 19th.

The gala function, which takes its place as a major event of the sports world's annual winter banquet season, was conceived as a means of giving the sports industry its own equivalent of an "Oscar." Handsome bronze trophies, designed by sculptor Robert Weinman, will be presented to the "Top Performers" of the eleven major sports who achieved greatest prominence under competition.

An outstanding list of athletes, coaches, managers, sports directors, writers and broadcasters have already notified the magazine that they will attend. Among them are Lou Boudreau, brilliant manager-shortstop of the World's Champion Cleveland Indians; Alex Groza, star center of the Kentucky Wildcats; Marion Motley, sparkling Cleveland Browns fullback; Featherweight Champion Sandy Saddler; Jack Kramer, world pro tennis champ; and Don Walker, Southern Methodist's backfield ace.

The list of confirmations also includes Matt Bell, SMU coaching wizard; Otto Graham, Cleveland Browns' star quarterback; Bill Veeck, president of the Cleveland Indians; Gus Lesnevich, former light-heavyweight titleholder; welterweight King Ray "Sugar" Robinson; Harrison Dillard, Olympic 100 meter titlist; Mickey Vernon, the Indian's latest hurling acquisition; Wilbur Shaw, Indianapolis Speedway king; Dizzy Dean, now a baseball broadcaster, and Dr. Robert

CAPTAIN PAUL WALTHER, Tennessee's All-American Forward, is the number one scoring threat for the Volunteers this year. The Covington, Kentucky senior has scored 184 points in 11 games thus far, an average of 16.7 per game.

An Associated Press release from Fayetteville, Ark., last week.

The two schools have signed a two-year contract, which also calls for a game in 1950 at Fayetteville, home of the Razorbacks.

The addition of Arkansas leaves Kentucky with one more date to fill in the 1949 schedule. Rumors have it that a West Coast school will be added to the card.

Big Blue Meets Vols Next; Tech In Atlanta On Monday

By Dudley Saunders

The Wildcats from Kaintuck will bare their claws tomorrow night at Knoxville against their oldest South-eastern Conference foe, the Tennessee Volunteers.

In the 81st renewal of one of the bitterest and most historic rivalries in the South, the Cats will be looking for their 54th victory. The Vols have won 27 times.

The meeting has grown so much in popularity and importance that both teams usually regard it as the big conference game of the year.

Anything can happen in a Kentucky-Tennessee tilt, and often does. Fans are seldom surprised by an upset.

Lowery Is UT Coach

Tutoring the Vols for the second year is Emmett Lowery, an All-Big Ten and All-American selection at Purdue in the early 1930's, and later the Boilermaker cage coach.

Last year Lowery took a comparatively inexperienced squad through a 25-game schedule, suffering only five defeats, three of them to Kentucky. The Vols had a 10-2 conference record during the regular season.

The Cats downed them twice in the regular season, 65-54 and 69-42, and in the SEC tournament, 70-47. Their other two losses were to Miami, (O.) 54-51, and North Carolina, 52-43.

This year they haven't fared so well, losing three out of their first 11 starts, despite a veteran squad that includes one All-conference, All-American player.

In some games, comparative scores mean absolutely nothing. Such is the case in a Kentucky-Tennessee battle. Even when the scores were lopsided, most games have always been fast, furious, rough and memorable.

Thus far the Vols and Cats have met three common foes and in each case the outcome points definitely in Kentucky favor.

St. Johns trounced Tennessee 67-45, and the Wildcats in turn slaughtered the Brooklynites, 57-39. The Vols lost to Arkansas U. 58-55, a team the Cats clawed, 76-39. Both teams stomped Tulsa, Kentucky doing it 81-37, and the Vols, 63-36.

Vols Use Fast Break

Besides losing to St. Johns and Arkansas, the Vols also lost to St. Josephs (Philadelphia) by an 83-68 count.

Coach Lowery has been stressing more and more the importance of the fast break and once his veteran squad hits its stride it will mean trouble for everyone.

Three members of the Tennessee starting quintet are native Kentuckians. The most outstanding of these is All-American forward, Paul Walther, a 6' 2" southpaw sharp-shooter from Covington. Walther was the team's leading scorer with 334 points last year and is captain this year.

With three years experience at UK behind him, he is unquestionably the Vols' best all-around man.

Hugh Jones, Wahi Wah's six-foot brother, was moved from forward to guard last year and has shown steady improvement ever since. He is fast, a ball hawk and good shot. Last year he scored 197 points. A junior, Hugh played three years of service ball before entering UT.

Playing the pivot is 6' 5" Art Burris, from Nashville, whose chief value to the team is his defensive rebounding. He is a junior and scored 169 points last year. Observers say he has improved quite a bit.

Other Vol starters are 5' 11" Ed "Britches" Montgomery, junior guard from Knoxville, who scored 213 points last year, and Forward Dale Powell, 6' 2" junior from Louisville. Powell joined the squad last year in mid-season, and, even though he scored just 74 points, showed enough talent and improvement to win a starting berth.

Lowery has several veteran reserves as well as a few inexperienced newcomers who can spell the regulars and still make things tough for their opponents.

Observers believe the Vols have improved individually, but not as a team. They point out, however, that once they do start clicking as a five-man unit, they could make things hot for everyone, including Kentucky.
